Undergraduate Partnered Research Programme

We're looking for an upper year PhD student (ABD) to work as a co-instructor with Dr. Holly Ann Garnett to administer the Undergraduate Partnered Research Programme in 2023-24. Graduate students at any Canadian institution are eligible to apply.

The Undergraduate Partnered Research Programme is a year-long internship or directed studies course during which students at Canadian universities undertake advanced study on democratic life and conduct a small research project in collaboration with a partner organization. Students receive course credit according to their institution's policies if applicable.

The programme will include a small number of students (~8) and an equal number of partner organizations.

The co-instructor's responsibilities will be as follows:

TASK	CALCULATION	HOURS
Preliminary Meetings with Partners	Maximum 8 partners * 1 hour each	8
Facilitate monthly seminars with students	7*(2 hours seminar +5 hours prep work)	49
Facilitate check-ins with students	4 * 8 students + 2	64
Read and comment on up to 4 drafts or works-in progress	4 drafts * 2 hours * 8 students	64
Attendance at final seminars	8 students * 1 hour	8
Additional assistance for interns as required, logistics help etc.	50 hours (approx.)	50
TOTAL HOURS		243

This is an excellent opportunity for a PhD student to gain teaching and mentoring experience, and work with a group of strong undergraduates on exciting projects with real-world relevance.

Co-instructor compensation will be in the form of a $9000 stipend, paid out in two equal installments at the start of each semester. The co-instructor will also be invited to attend the C-Dem Forum in 2024 where the students will be invited to present their research projects.

Application for the position can be made by sending a CV and cover letter to admin@c-dem.ca by July 15, 2023.
